

In a discussion with the author, Alec Couros described what happens when a decentralized conception of knowledge is applied to a real classroom environment and discussed his concerns about the scalability and replicability of this kind of teaching.